

Deviré Robinson

Vice President, Philanthropic Advancement and Centers For Giving

Deviré Robinson is Vice President, Philanthropic Advancement and Centers For Giving at Foundation For The Carolinas. In this role, he leads a team focused on stewardship and fund management of FFTC’s personal, corporate and nonprofit clients.

Deviré serves individuals and organizations through a variety of philanthropic services, which allows them to focus on their charitable missions and have an even greater impact in the communities they serve.

Prior to joining FFTC, Deviré served as a strategic consultant and project manager at a firm dedicated to helping nonprofits and charitable foundations achieve their goals. He previously practiced commercial litigation for several years at a private law firm. Deviré graduated with honors from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he was a Morehead Scholar with a major in Political Science and a minor in Business Administration. He earned his J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

As an active member of his local community, Deviré coaches youth sports and enjoys volunteering with youth-oriented causes. Deviré currently serves on the boards of the North Carolina Center for Nonprofits and the Institute for Philanthropic Leadership.
